

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides methods and systems for implementing an improved electronic mail (email) Internet appliance. Improved capabilities include 5 streamlined mechanisms for viewing and managing email messages and for accessing network services. An email Internet appliance obviates the conventional requirements of purchasing a personal computer and tying up a phone line for long periods of time in order to exchange email messages and to read on-line news updates.

10

15

20

25 WINLIB01:890633.6